North York Total Is Near $3,000,000, Newmarket Is Over

General Canvass Total Exceeds Objective By $169,000, All Municipalities Stand High In Loan

North York went gloriously over its objective of $2,150,000 with a total of $2,319,850 for the general canvass, with minor additions possibly still to be made.

Special names subscriptions of $667,100 made the total $2,986,950.

Newmarket subscribed $357,300, with an objective of $325,000. This total was for general canvass only.

East Gwillimbury made a remarkable showing, with $181,450 subscribed against a $135,000 objective. Victory loan organizer H. L. Trapp attributed this result to the hard work of the canvassers and the co-operation of township citizens.

All municipalities were close to their objectives. North Gwillimbury subscribed $47,450 (objective $65,000), Georgina $61,000 (objective $65,000) and Sutton $51,300 (objective 60,000).

Horace Pearson, Mount Albert, won the prize of $50 given by Chairman Aubrey Davis for the best showing made by a canvasser for the entire loan. C. C. Gamble, Newmarket, won the second prize of $20.

Reeve Fred A. Lundy said at a town council meeting on Monday evening that Newmarket's total was "remarkable." Deputy-Reeve A. D. Evans spoke with pride of the Davis Leather employees' total of $27,100 against an objective of $20,750.

Thrilled with Newmarket's achievement, Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales issued the following statement this week: "On behalf of your council may I express to the citizens of this patriotic little town a few words of admiration and praise for your loyal and unselfish response to the fourth Victory loan.

"It was a grand and practical expression of your love of country and your desire to be in this war as much as possible.

"The words of one of our Victory loan salesmen best describes the soul of Newmarket: 'Everyone was kind and just wanted to do all they could to help'."

SON OF FIRST POSTMASTER, A. E. ROE DIES

Born in Newmarket on May 23, 1858, Albert Evelyn Roe died on Friday evening, May 15, at his summer residence, "Glenroe," on Bayview Ave., near Toronto, after an illness of a few months.

He had resided on Bedford Road in Toronto for many years and up to the time of his retirement was an official in the crown lands department of the Ontario government. The body was brought to Newmarket and laid in the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose until the time of the funeral on Monday afternoon, when a service was held at St. Paul's church, conducted by Rev. L. I. Greene, rector of St. Mary Magdelene's church, Toronto, assisted by Rev. G. H. Johnson, rector of St. Paul's. The body was laid to rest in Newmarket cemetery and the pallbearer's were L. P. Cane, Thos. F. Doyle, John O. Little, John E. Nesbitt, Joel Spillette and Chas. Willis.

In 1881 Mr. Roe was married to Lillian Mary Macdonald, granddaughter of the late George Hogaboom of Newmarket. They had four children, William E., Edward A., Marjorie A. and Frederick A. L. Roe. Edward and Frederick survive their father, who was predeceased by his wife. Three daughters of William E. Roe survive, the Misses Marjorie and Barbara Roe and Sgt. Marion Roe of the R.C.A.F.

The Roes were a pioneer Newmarket family. Albert Roe's grandfather came to Canada from England as a young man and completed his education in Montreal. He graduated in law and received his commission as a barrister from Lord Dorchester, the governor-general, in 1789. He moved to Upper Canada, settling in Detroit, then a small Canadian settlement. He was the first, and for many years, the only lawyer in Upper Canada. His wife was Ann Laughton, whose father was an officer with General Wolfe and who superintended the raising of the first cannon to the plains of Abraham, at the taking of Quebec.

William Roe was born in Detroit "under the British flag." His father became the mayor of that town and after its capture by the American forces the family moved to Sandwich, across the river. William Roe, Albert's father, moved to Toronto at the age of 17 and became a clerk in the office of Prideaux Selby, the receiver-general. He took part in the war of 1812 and was entrusted in the hiding of the government funds when the American forces invaded the city, later turning the funds over to the receiver-general in the parlor of Bishop Strachan's palace.

In 1814 William Roe decided to engage in the fur trade with the Indians and he settled at Newmarket, then a settlement of one or two houses. He opened a trading store here and later, at the request of the government, became the first postmaster of the town. An early marriage produced three children, William, who was thrown from his horse and killed when a young man, and two daughters, one of whom married Evelyn Tait of London, England, and the other became the wife of William Mingaye, collector of customs at Kingston.

Losing his first wife, William Roe married again at the age of 56 and had eight children by the second marriage. Old-timers will recall the hospitable homestead at "No. 1 Main St.," where Nesbitt's store now is. Albert Roe was the third child of this marriage and spent his early years in Newmarket.

Three sisters who will be remembered by Newmarket people were Mrs. Harlston Irving, Mrs. T. O. Townley and Mrs. W. A. Brunton.

WM. TOWNSLEY WINS $10 WAR CERTIFICATE

With 26 entries in the Guess-the-total Victory loan contest, sponsored by a group of public-spirited Newmarket citizens, the $50 Victory bond (in the form of cash) went to the Newmarket Red Cross (as was stipulated in the event of less than 100 entries).

The $10 war savings certificate, offered by The Era and Express (in the event of there being less than 100 answers), goes to Wm. Townsley, 62 Niagara St., Newmarket, for his guess of $2,350,100 (for the North York general canvass).

The total reported by Victory loan headquarters today (subject to slight additions) is $2,319,850. Objective was $2,150,000.

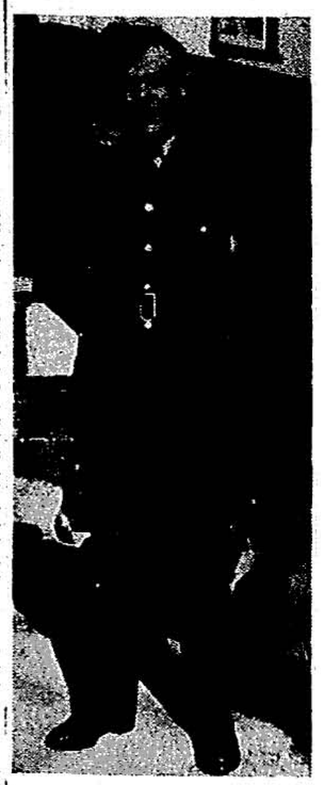

Second best guess was offered by Mrs. Arthur Brice, 79 Andrew St., with $2,250,000. Phyllis Osborne, 51 Timothy St., was next with $2,245,000.

On the upper side of the actual result there were only three guesses, the winning guess, $2,900,000 and $3,000,000. The last two would have been close if the special names canvass were to be included.

TOWN WILL PROVIDE LAND FOR GARDENS

Reeve Fred A. Lundy asked the town council's approval on Monday evening of his action in giving permission to five or six citizens to use vacant town lots for Victory gardens.

Councillor Frank Bowser suggested that the town should not only provide land but also plow it.

"Some have already plowed the land for themselves," said Mr. Lundy.

"We might accept the suggestion," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "We could plow a lot for anyone who applies for a lot and asks us to plow it."

"Anyone who takes a lot and plows it himself is foolish," said Mr. Bowser. "These lots have grown up in weeds for years. It means a terrible job to clean them up."

"Could we plant a town garden?" asked Dr. Dales.

"Who would do the work—the councillors?" asked N. L. Mathews, K.C., clerk and solicitor.

Mr. Bowser asked that the town help the Victory garden movement by advertising that the town has land available for the asking.

Plane At Cedar Valley Makes Forced Landing

An R.C.A.F. plane made a forced landing in a field on the Carl Reynolds' farm, Cedar Valley, on May 9.

Due to wet weather and soft ground, it was impossible to get the plane out until Friday. It was dismantled and taken away in trucks. No damage was done and the crew were uninjured.

WILL TAG FOR CHINESE WAR RELIEF FUND

On the streets of Newmarket this Saturday, May 22, 30 Newmarket high school girls will be tagging for the Chinese War Relief fund. The tag day has been authorized by the town council.

"The gallant resistance which China has offered to Japan for almost ten years has received all too little notice, and we perhaps fail to realize what sacrifices that resistance has meant to the Chinese nation," says the chairman, J. B. Bastedo.

"At present their need is most urgent—not only for the materials of war, but for food, clothing, medical supplies, etc., which they have not the money to buy in the quantities required. Their military and civilian casualties have been high, property losses have been enormous, and seasonal floods have not only made many millions of Chinese homeless, but in certain areas they are threatened with starvation.

"Saturday will give us an opportunity to help a noble ally, whose need is urgent. The central committee hopes that our response will be generous, because it is their intention to present the Ontario proceeds to Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek on her forthcoming visit to Toronto. The money will be used by her for her war orphanage work in China.

"Be generous to the taggers Saturday; and, if you care to make a donation by cheque, please make same payable and mail to the Chinese War Relief fund, Room 101, 371 Bay St., Toronto."

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF $500 TO NORMAN RUSH

Fire dealt a cruel blow to Norman Rush, north Main St., last Thursday afternoon.

While Mr. Rush, who is an invalid and able to work only a couple of hours a day, was in the house resting for a few minutes, fire broke out in his workshop and soon destroyed it, with tools, materials, and work in process.

Wallace Adams, Newmarket cemetery caretaker, whose house is across the street, rang in the alarm at 3.30 p.m. The fire brigade responded, but found that the hose was not long enough to take town water to the fire.

Mr. Rush estimated his loss at $500, not covered by insurance. He lost his jig-saw, circular-saw, lathe, gasoline engine and power generator, radio testing equipment, tools, bicycle parts, lumber, work in process and the building.

"Up there we must make some arrangements with the town or the township to have at least one hydrant near the cemetery," Mr. Rush told The Era and Express. "I realize it because of this experience."

It was learned from an officer of the Newmarket fire brigade that there is sufficient hose to reach the Rush property but that the fire-truck carries only 1,200 or so feet. The fire was so advanced, it was said, that it was not practical to use chemicals or any use returning for additional hose.

Mr. Adams and his Newmarket cemetery staff, with buckets of water, saved Mr. Rush's house and put out fire on the roof of Chas. Lepard's nearby barn.

Mr. Rush, who is in ill health and has a family, has been dependent on his workshop to make a livelihood.

Nurse Might Have Avoided "All This," Mayor Tells Council

Councillor Spillette Says Prosecutions Are Needed To Make Quarantine Respected

Why the public schools were closed and the separate school allowed to carry on, was asked by Councillor J. L. Spillette at a town council meeting on Monday evening. As a result, he said, the theatre had to admit separate school pupils and refuse to admit public school children.

"I don't know any town that has as little respect for quarantine as this town," said Mr. Spillette. "I see children running around with shawls around their necks. They have mumps one day and they are out the next. It is a lack of care on the part of parents. Two or three prosecutions are needed."

"I think the reason the separate school was not closed was that there were no cases there," said Councillor Joseph Vale. Mr. Vale said that "quarantine laws are not enforced in Newmarket."

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales arrived at this point, and the chairman, Reeve F. A. Lundy, repeated Mr. Spillette's question as to "why all the schools were not closed."

"It is a matter for the board of health," said Dr. Dales. He added: "I do maintain that if this epidemic had been taken hold of in the beginning and you had had inspection at the schools every morning you would have saved all this trouble. You might as well send the children back to school. If we hadn't turned down the school nurse, we might have saved all this trouble. We wouldn't have had this waste of government grants. A school nurse would educate the parents to observe quarantine."

"When I was a kid we had to stay in when we were quarantined," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., town clerk and solicitor, who thought that quarantine could be enforced without a school nurse.

Mr. Lundy said that Mr. Spillette should direct his inquiry to the board of health. Mr. Spillette thought that the council should take action.

Would Take Action

Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H., told The Era and Express this week that, after issuing the general order that the schools should be closed, he went to St. John's separate school and learned that there were no absences from one room and only two from the other. He therefore decided that it was not desirable to close St. John's school, and told the teachers to carry on.

With regard to breaches of quarantine, Dr. Wesley said that he would be glad to have any instances reported to him, and that he was ready to take action at any time.

"Every Chance You Get Please Thank Red Cross"

Letters From Fred Evans Tell Parents He Prefers Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Evans received on Saturday a letter from their son, Sgt. Fred Evans, dated Feb. 6. They had already received one on April 7 dated Feb. 21, and on Good Friday they had one written Feb. 28 (his birthday is Feb. 29).

He said: "Spending a very quiet birthday but feeling O.K. and getting along alright. Have received some of your October mail, and also cigs from the church. Please thank them very much. Weather has been very exceptional—lucky for us. Please remember me to everyone. A few snaps would be nice." (They are not supposed to "ask" for anything.)

The letter received Feb. 21 said he was in the convalescent block of the P.O.W. camp and hoped to stay a while longer, thus missing the shackling, but there was no word of why he had been in hospital.

Then last Saturday came the letter of Feb. 6, when he said he was still in the sick bay of the camp, and added: "You have likely been informed on admittance. I understand that is done. Well, do not be alarmed at all. I'm just hoping I'll be able to stay here a while longer. So far it has been a mild winter and I hope I'll be home for the next. Had half a Canadian Red Cross parcel this week and it sure was nice to taste Canadian stuff again. Every chance you get please thank the Red Cross. Just longing to hear from you all. Chocolate is very acceptable. Love to all again. Write often. "Fred."

The postcards have only four or five lines for correspondence. The letter forms have three times that, but evidently are not always available.

Prospects look brighter for him being home for his next birthday, his parents think. The last one, 1940, was while the Royals were at Exhibition camp. He was given leave for the day to spend it at home since he had a birthday only once every four years.

SCHOOL REOPENS

Newmarket public school opens on Tuesday morning, it is announced by the chairman of the board, Rev. J. A. Koffend.

TELLS STORY OF MEN WHO SERVE ON SHIP

The story of a destroyer, the H.M.S. Torrin which went down in the Battle of Crete, Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve", which comes to the Royal theatre, Aurora, on Monday for six days, shows in dramatic manner how the men who sail in this ship are bound to her in love and sacrifice, yet live their own lives apart in the warm circle of their families.

From the launching of the Torrin, until its last moments when it lies sadly on its side in the war-filled Mediterranean, it is the ship in which they serve steadfastly and gallantly, and for whose glory many of them lose their lives under the bombs of the enemy.

Yet behind this life of members of the royal navy, who keep the ship's guns blazing until the waters of the sea flow over them, is their own life as husband or lover or father. As the Torrin sinks at Crete and the survivors cling to a rubber float awaiting rescue, the camera returns to scenes in the lives of some of them—of Capt. Kinross, played by Noel Coward, of his chief petty officer, Walter Hardy, and of Ordinary Seaman Shorty Blake.

The Hardys are seen around the table at Christmas, laughing and singing and making speeches, and Shorty and Mrs. Blake on their honeymoon enjoying the brief moments of joy before he goes back to the sea and the war. The Kinross family is seen with young Lavinia and Bobby, enjoying a picnic and drinking in the quiet and beauty of the English country-side—while planes fly ominously overhead.

And later, bombs fall through the roof of the Hardy home and kill Mrs. Hardy, who refused to move on to shelter in the country because she couldn't leave her husband's garden—or his home.

Through all these episodes of home life, the thread of the war is subtly woven—women and children living not only bereft of father and husband, but living in anxiety and on the brink of sorrow or horror to come.

Nearly 400 Soldiers Want To Give Blood To Red Cross

Red Cross Plans Regular Clinic At Basic Training Centre

With the co-operation of Major N. M. Young, officer commanding, a Red Cross blood donor clinic was held at Newmarket training centre last Wednesday. Three hundred and ninety men volunteered to give their blood. One hundred and ten men actually gave their blood, the clinic not being able to handle the total number of volunteers.

The clinic was held in Newmarket military hospital. The space and staff were efficiently used under the direction of Capt. L. A. Weissgerber, officer in charge of the hospital. Nurse Fallon of the Red Cross was in charge of the clinic and was ably assisted by the local Red Cross, who volunteered their services for the day. Dr. L. W. Dales and Dr. G. E. Case of Newmarket also gave their time to assist in this good work.

The nurses were guests for lunch at the officers' mess after the clinic.

It is expected that a clinic will be held regularly at Newmarket training centre.

GWILLIMBURY?

The town has received a second request from the department of naval defence to suggest a geographical name other than "Newmarket," already in use in the royal navy, for a Canadian warship.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said that the town office would accept suggestions up until Saturday, and forward the best suggestions to Ottawa.

Jewish Nazi Victim Is Not Yet At Journey's End

Gustav Weil Spent Last Summer On Yonge St., Newmarket, Farm

A German Jewish refugee, Gustav Weil spent last summer on the farm of Arthur E. Boyd, Yonge St., Newmarket, but at that time he was not ready to have his story published. He told The Era and Express of his experiences but he was afraid that publicity might be a breach of his Canadian internment camp parole.

Now he is living in Montreal, it seems, and he has given his story to the press. In Germany, he told The Era and Express, he was a farmer. He began growing tobacco and gradually became a cigar manufacturer. He was quite successful.

The Nazis arrested him, along with other Jews, on Nov. 10, 1938. He said that he was beaten. He was released after 11 days, and the following May he was one of nearly a thousand Jewish refugees who were allowed to sail on what was later described as "the suicide ship," the St Louis, for Havana, Cuba. A change in the Cuban government resulted in the cancellation of entry permits and the St. Louis sailed up and down the North American coast vainly seeking permission to land her passengers.

Despairing passengers leapt overboard rather than return to Europe. The St. Louis sailed back to Antwerp, and the refugees were accepted by Holland, France, Belgium and Britain. Mr. Weil found himself in Britain. He was put into an internment camp when Britain rounded up enemy aliens in 1940. He was transferred to a Canadian camp the same year.

He was released last summer to work at the Boyd farm. While in Newmarket he spoke at a Newmarket Women's Institute fair in the interests of the third Victory loan.

Mr. Weil, who had lost his first wife in Germany, was married while at the Boyd farm to an American Jewess. A daughter living in the United States was the means of bringing together Mr. Weil and his second wife. The wedding was a colorful event.

Mr. Weil was 63 years old and not able to do a great deal of work about a farm. He left Newmarket in the fall. Presumably his wife is living in the United States, and he is still trying to get a permit to go to that country to live. His daughter and her family live in New Jersey.

JUSTICE

In Canada we are proud of our courts of justice. There are errors, but justice predominates. The person who is accused of a serious crime is not only entitled to tell his side of the story, but, if he does not employ a lawyer to act for him, the court will provide counsel. And then the accused person is not guilty just because a majority of the jury say that he is. He is not guilty until all 12 say that he is. The most important person in this court of justice is the presiding officer, the judge. He guards jealously the traditions of British justice.

When an accused person is found guilty, the judge must then exercise all his wisdom in meting out the sentence. The injured person or the injured person's relatives do not determine the punishment. The judge, free from feelings of bitterness, revenge, hatred, determines, within the limits set by the criminal code, the punishment.

The punishment is partly calculated to reform or influence for the better the person punished, and partly calculated to deter others from similar mistakes. The judge requires great wisdom. This is particularly true in dealing with young or first or second-time offenders, persons for whom there is real hope of return to normal behavior.

So it should be when this war is over. Those who determine what is to happen to the Axis countries should not be those of us who feel that we have been injured. Benes, of much-wronged Czechoslovakia, for instance, who advocates breaking Germany up into a number of small states, is obviously not an impartial judge. People who have themselves felt the direct impact of war are not impartial or wise judges.

It is so difficult to know where to find fair or wise judges, whose decisions would have a real chance of leading to permanent peace, that there is much to be said for the frequently suggested plan of waiting five or ten years before making the permanent settlement.

WHO WILL PAY?

When a group of friends or acquaintances are together, and there is something to pay for, a meal, a lunch, or a drink, everybody wants to pay for it. "Give me the check!" Yet, in the larger group of friends, acquaintances or fellow citizens that makes the nation, a popular idea seems to be to let the other fellow pay for it. We want social and health services provided someone else pays for them. We believe in hospital services, mothers' allowances, old-age pensions, public health clinics, better schools, free school books, but we want someone else to foot the bill.

We want these things, but we say that the federal government or the provincial government should pay for them. We are right to the extent that these governments raise a great deal of money from income tax and succession duties, probably the fairest way to raise money, from those who no longer have any use for this world's goods.

those who have more than they need and from

At the present time, however, the demands on income tax revenue have become so heavy that the income tax has been broadened to fall upon the little people whom these social services would help most. To make more demands on income tax revenue just now does not seem sensible, and we can expect the present war demands on the federal and provincial treasuries to be replaced by reconstruction and re-establishment demands.

For example, if we are going to wait until the federal or provincial government is ready to provide a public health clinic or a public health nurse for the people of Newmarket we may have a long wait. Here is a service of which we would be the beneficiaries, and if we are to enjoy it we must find a way of raising the money ourselves. We would probably find that we had made a good investment and that the expenditure had saved us money and returned dividends.

Our chief methods of raising money are by public subscription or taxation on real estate. Taxation on real estate seems to us quite fair, because additional services provided to our citizens make the town a more desirable place to live and increase the value of both business and residential properties.

FREE DISCUSSION

(Manchester Guardian Weekly)

A 100 years ago there died a man to whom we owe much of what we now enjoy in liberty of speech and writing. To "respectable" England of 1843 Richard Carlile, when he died at the age of 52, was a low agitator fellow who after disseminating republicanism and atheism (and being rightly gaoled for it) had turned into a Christian missionary preaching a queer sort of unorthodoxy of his own.

But to the respectable most of the remarkable group of English eccentrics who inspired the Radical movement—Owen, Cobbett, Hunt, Hone, Place, Burdett, and the rest—appeared in the same disreputable light. Carlile was one of the most interesting of them, a tinplate worker turned pamphlet hawker, then pamphleteer and publisher who fought the battle for freedom to print with fanaticism. He had an almost mystical belief in the virtue of the printed word.

And it was because he published cheap pamphlets, anti-government and anti-established religion, and put Paine's proscribed "Rights of Man" and "Age of Reason" in the hands of the masses that the government pursued him so vindictively. He spent ten years of his life in prison, and his family and shopmen were sent there too, but he fought the authorities with a persistence that wore them down. Our laws of blasphemous and seditious libel are still far from satisfactory, but, as Mr. Cole well says in his excellent centenary pamphlet, "no one can take from Carlile the credit of having made the greatest stand of any man in the nineteenth century for freedom of speech and writing or of having done more than any other to bring the more flagrant forms of press persecution to an end."

"COST-PLUS" CONTRACTS

(Orillia Packet and Times)

There is an impression abroad that the dominion government is awarding contracts on a cost-plus basis, and that this constitutes an incentive to extravagance, since the larger the expenditure the larger will be the percentage and the profits. This idea extended even to members of the house of commons, and during a recent discussion there, the Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, took occasion to deny that this is the case, as is shown by this quotation from Hansard:

Mr. Howe: I think there is a misunderstanding about cost-plus contracts. The ordinary person usually thinks of a cost-plus contract as a contract involving cost plus a certain percentage, so that the greater the volume of work the greater the profit. I think there is no contract of that type in the department. We have contracts involving payment of cost plus a fixed fee. For instance, in Newfoundland it has been impossible to arrive at costs. There is a certain amount of inflation there and costs are variable and beyond the control of any department in Canada. There we have cost plus a fixed fee. A contractor is given, say, a $50,000 fee to do $2,000,000 of work. The work may cost $1,500,000 or $2,500,000. The cost is the cost as audited by government accountants. But the fee is fixed. That type of contract is used under certain conditions where it is not possible to determine costs accurately. For the same class of work in Canada we would use the unit price contract; that is, so much a yard for moving clay, so much a yard for rock, so much for a yard of concrete in place. That is the unit price contract. The cost plus a fixed fee type we use where costs cannot be determined accurately in advance by the department or by the contractor. Where the costs can be determined in advance with reasonable accuracy, other types of contracts are used. So far as I am aware we have practically no contracts—I do not know of any, but there may be a few—of the cost plus a percentage type. In the early days there may have been some.

Mr. Howe also explained that where experience showed that contract prices were too high, the department had the right to cancel contracts or re-negotiate them, and to collect retroactively any profits that were considered excessive. This power extends to sub-contracts. He expressed the opinion that, under the system of inspection now in vogue, it was practically impossible for a contractor to get away with unreasonable profits. Moreover, as plants gained experience and efficiency, costs were coming down amazingly. Thus the Bren gun, originally contracted for at $600, was now being produced for less than $200, and rifles which cost $80 in a government-operated plant had been brought down to somewhere around $25.

THE INDEX AND THE BONUS

(Fort Erie Times-Review)

To many people, the dominion Bureau of Statistics' cost-of-living index, and the cost-of-living bonus which is based upon it, are quite fantastic.

Since payment of the bonus was made mandatory, the maximum amount allowable to any worker is 60 cents a week. This, of course, is in addition to any bonus that had been paid before it became compulsory; but employers who did not pay the bonus before that time, only give their employees 60 cents a week. And the latest index compiled by the dominion Bureau of Statistics indicates that 60 cents is what it will remain for some little time to come.

To suggest to the average housewife that the cost of maintaining her home and family now is no more than 60 cents higher than it was several months ago, is to insult her intelligence. Yet official statements galore have been issued—and even booklets published and distributed—to show how accurately and scientifically the index is compiled. Actually it provides an example of "an attempt to apply precision to things that do not permit of it"—as somebody once said about another matter.

An illustration of just what a hoax has been played on the Canadian people is furnished by the order permitting restaurants to charge five cents extra for coffee or tea served with meals in which they were included formerly without any additional charge. In these days when tens of thousands of men and women are working in munition plants away from their home towns, a great many people are forced to obtain all their meals in public eating places. On the basis of only two meals a day, this added charge alone represents an increase of 70 cents a week in their cost of living—against a bonus of 60 cents.

And that is without taking into consideration the raised prices of virtually everything else they have to buy.

It may be said, of course, that people don't have to drink tea or coffee with their meals; that these beverages are non-essentials. All of which is true. Also, it is true that people can control their living costs, within certain limits, by progressively lowering their standard of living—by eating boiled beans, for example, instead of beef. But to use that as an argument that the real cost of living is not increasing rapidly is simply begging the question.

Nazi forces are attempting to bring order out of the chaos wrought by the Royal Air Force attack on the Mohne and Eder dams in the Ruhr valley on Monday, when one of the greatest floods in history was set in motion with the unleashing of 336,000,000 tons of water.

Farmers who have been in the habit of having an occasional animal slaughtered for their own use may resume the practice, since the wartime prices and trade board have relaxed the slaughtering regulations. The new ruling permits the holder of a slaughtering permit to slaughter livestock for any non-permit-holding farmer who resides on his own farm provided that the animal is the farmer's own stock and is to be consumed on his own farm.

The Germans are attempting to break out of their narrow bridgeheads in the area around Novorossisk, the Caucasus Black Sea base. Russian troops succeeded in throwing the Germans back and blasted the enemy with artillery fire on Tuesday. Four German artillery batteries were silenced.

Considering the busy season of the year, there was a large market on Saturday. Besides the usual produce there was quite a showing of green vegetables.

A few days ago Redmond Simpson's hired man picked up a valuable relic, about five and a half inches long and two inches wide, something in the form of a bird. It was made of Huronian slate, a pale blue color with darker stripes giving the material the appearance of petrified wood. Mr. Simpson sent the relic to the World's Fair.

DREAMS AND VISIONS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

From the beginning of recorded time, we read of people dreaming dreams and seeing visions. Some of these dreams or visions developed into splendid realities, some saved the lives of whole nations, some presaged the downfall of empires. Joseph's dream, as a boy, of his brother's sheaves doing obesaince to his sheaf, sent him into captivity in Egypt; his interpretation of the dreams of Pharoah's butler and baker was remembered when Pharoah dreamed his dream of seven lean kine eating up the seven fat ones, and could find no one to interpret it.

Then after two years of ungrateful forgetfulness, the chief butler thought of Joseph in prison and told Pharoah of his skill in interpreting dreams, and through his interpretation of Pharoah's dream, the lands of Egypt and Canaan were saved from famine, and Joseph became prime minister instead of slave and prisoner. Daniel rose to greatness by interpreting the dreams of Nebuchadnezzar, Belshazzar and Darius.

Joseph was warned in a vision to take Mary and the infant Jesus and flee into Egypt to escape Herod. The wise men were commanded in a dream not to return to tell Herod where Jesus was born. Pilate's wife dreamed a strange dream and warned Pilate to have nothing to do with Jesus. Joan of Arc dreamed dreams and went forth in the strength of them to fight for France.

Then there are the silly or terrible or sort of matter of fact dreams that we all have experienced.

Some people dream every night, and after remember their dreams, some of them just a continuation of the day's doings, which they forgot to lay aside when they lay themselves down to sleep.

I seldom dream and if I do, once in a long time, it's just a tantalizing fragment—never finished.

So it was all the more extraordinary, when, about three weeks ago, I had a dream so vivid and clear-cut that it comes back to me over and over again.

I thought I stood in some strange land. Overhead was a sky of such intense azure blue, that it hardly seemed real.

Against this blue, just like a movie film, there flew a great eagle. I could see every detail of its huge wing-spread. In its beak, it carried a huge spotted dog—a Dalmatian.

Slowly it crossed my line of vision and disappeared into the dim distance. Is the American eagle going to enter Italy through Dalmatia?

I couldn't get it out of my head — maybe writing it out will help, but I see it yet, as plainly as when it startled me, with its cameo-like clear-cutness.

It's a fascinating subject and I think I'll begin and make a collection of dreams that SEEM, at any rate, to mean something—all contributions will be accepted.

MAY NOTES

Spring seems to sharpen all our faculties. And not only of humans is this true, but of every bird and animal that comes within our range of vision.

Haven't you noticed in your own case that in springtime your own sense of smell is keener—it seems to catch the whiffs of almost phantom perfume that comes from the earliest blooms; one's eyes seem to be quick to see every new bird and blossom; and one's ears seem tuned more truly to nature's harmonies of bird song and spring wind as they play their rhapsodies on the tree branches.

And cats! Their eyes seem to gleam with a new lustre, their whiskers bristle pugnaciously and every separate hair seems to have a life of its own. Their brains or instincts, or whatever cats have, seem to work overtime, too, of which fact we have ample evidence.

Timothy, the cat who adopted us, as long as the cold weather lasted, was a sleepy cat. He lay before the fire or on the couch for hours on end, and paid very little attention to anyone. Now, all is different. Timothy has ideas, and is no laggard at expressing them, also at putting them into operation.

The other day he ate his dinner and then prepared to seek the dining-room couch for his afternap. Well, the man of the house got there first.

I was upstairs when I heard the most appalling roars. Imagining that Timmy and Wooly were about to engage in mortal combat, I prepared to fly downstairs. Halfway down and just where he could glare into the dining-room, sat Timmy. He'd glare at Archie, then lift up his voice in anguish to bring me to put the intruder off HIS couch.

As no one could sleep through his howls and as it was our dinner hour anyway, he won out, and retired in triumph, to sleep and, no doubt, dream of his conquest all over again.

"What DOES that cat mean?" asked Mother, as Timothy rubbed against her, and then ran to the door and back to her again.

"Maybe he's trying to tell you something," I suggested, and Mother, taking the hint, opened the door. There stood Wooly, looking dejected. She slunk in and stood near where I was writing like a culprit awaiting sentence.

"So that's why you didn't climb the door as usual when you wanted in," I informed her, as I took her up and proceeded to try to disentangle her long wool from the handfuls of burrs that were lodged in her coat.

Wooly wanted the burrs out, but didn't like the process any more than you and I would, should we get burrs in our hair, and she proceeded to pronounce anathemas on burrs and me, indiscriminately.

And its lovely to watch the birds. All winter long my particular woodpecker refused to let any other Pecker eat off his tree. NOW he brings his lady friend and together they feast on bits of fat and crumbs.

And I saw a funny battle the other day—two squirrels fighting over a big mouthful of dried grass that one of them had gathered for its nest. It had run all over the lawn finding just the right kind of grass, and then, no doubt thinking it deserved a rest, laid it down at the foot of the tree, took a drink and proceeded to eat a bit of bread. Being thus engaged, it never noticed another squirrel who came sneaking round the tree and grabbed the precious bundle.

But, squirrel No. 1 was no laggard. Dropping his bread, he proceeded to give squirrel No. 2 such a drubbing as, no doubt, he deserved, then grabbing his grass which he made into a neat little bundle, AND the bread, he retired to a branch, and catching them in a little crook, he proceeded to tell the other squirrel and the world in general a few home truths.

Then he calmly ate the bread, recaptured his bundle, and enacted "Waltzing Matilda" in his own fashion.

Oh there are little tragedies and comedies, right under our noses—or eyes if you like it better—if we only take time to look.

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era and Express: I understand from our local ration board our rural people are only to receive 10 lbs. of sugar per head for canning and preserving. This is only from 25 to 35 percent of what I understand they require.

Our farmers require much more than this allowance, as the sugar in the fruits is needed in their diets to produce the necessary energy and heat for outdoor work.

Surely some relief can be obtained from our federal government in the way of larger allowances for the rural people, even if it is necessary to cut down on other things.

If our rural councils and Women's Institutes took this up with their federal members, perhaps something might be worked out, to have larger allowances made of this necessary part of the farm diet.

Yours truly,
J. D. Sibbald,
Reeve,
Georgina Township.

LE FILS ROYAL

is the highly successful product of a long process of breed improvement in France which has produced a superior predominantly thoroughbred horse, sound, powerful, capable, handsome, clean-legged, gay and active, but absolutely docile.

The original foundation stock was the famous "Norman" horses themselves descended from the Arab. To this have been added Thoroughbred Blood and Rigid Selection. The more recent infusion of Thoroughbred Blood has been recorded by the registration of the produce in the official French Halfbred Book as well as in the official Coach Horse Book.

His extraordinary characteristics (high quality, handsome appearance, excellent action, size 16-2½, bone 9½ inches, weight 1550 pounds, wonderful disposition) make Le Fils Royal exceptionally suitable for use with well bred mares where some increase in substance is desired. He is himself a jumper.

As the proof of the pie is in the eating; you are invited to inspect our mare La Fille Royale, by Le Fils Royal (out of the thoroughbred mare Iona G.) on the Sifton Farm, 2¼ miles east and 1¼ miles north of Aurora.

Having found his progeny exceptionally good, we have purchased Le Fils Royal for our own use and are making him available for general service.

FARMERS NEED HELP SAYS N.H.S. PUPIL

Following is an address delivered recently by Miss Audrey Hunt in the senior girls' oratorical contest at Newmarket high school. The address is not only timely and interesting, but is an able presentation of a student's view of the farm-labor situation.

Farm labor is one of the greatest problems of this war. Although farming does not appear to be an outstanding industry, its value is far greater than that of many industries considered vital to the winning of the present world war. Price ceilings on farm produce, the shortage of farming equipment and the scarcity of farm help have greatly hindered and caused considerable hardship to the Canadian farmer.

Many former farm hands are now in the armed forces or earning higher wages in so-called vital war industry. That is why the students of Canada have been asked to co-operate by completing their school year earlier in the term and volunteering to help the short-handed farmer.

During the past three years the Canadian government has provided camps for young ambitious Canadians, who have no home-farm of their own on which to work. Here they are well supervised and cared for, as well as earning for themselves 23 to 25 cents an hour. These camps have proved very successful and, in many cases, crops which would have been lost have been harvested—saving not only the farmer but the whole of Canada from serious shortages and loss.

The thoughtfulness of the town citizens has also been of great value to the farmer. Last year many prominent business men gave up their leisure hours to harvest and thresh the grain crops.

Yet, in spite of all this, the farmer is still at a loss for manpower. Last year the hay crops were the heaviest they have been in years and the forthcoming ones are expected to be just as abundant. Therefore more students than ever will be required to volunteer to go out on farm labor. No extra school work is necessary to qualify the student's release at Easter. An average of 50 percent on the year's work is all that is required.

In Niagara Peninsula and some other parts of the province, where the students' services are urgently needed by or before April 1, an average of 75 percent had to be obtained, but in most parts this does not apply. The work on the farm may prove rather difficult at first and there is much to learn, but after the first few days the student becomes accustomed to it.

The poor, non-suspecting amateur learns the hard way that you don't back away from Billy, the goat, due to respect alone, nor do you bend to tie up your shoe-lace when the bearded gent is around. But the fidelity of the farm animals is as true as that of one's best friend—even Billy is friendly if you don't tempt him to extremes.

The nuzzling of old Dobbin's nose in your hand, the friendly moo of Bessie and the over-joyed "yip" of Rover as you come into the farmyard are true signs of loyalty. The idea of savage animals in the country is very old-fashioned, as really the only "wolves" now live in town.

Some students would consider their prestige greatly lowered if they were to be seen in a pair of baggy overalls, a sun-faded shirt, a pair of squeaking work-boots and a dilapidated straw hat. Their idea of a farmer is a backward individual known as a "hick" who lives in the remote part of the country or "the sticks" and leaves a trail of hayseeds behind him.

But this is by no means justified; the farmer of today should be highly respected, as he is the most important cog in the war production wheel. As Napoleon said, "An army marches on its stomach," and it is the farmer who is responsible for the mass production of milk, meat, butter, eggs and cheese—the staple foods of not only our army of soldiers, but our army of war-workers, our allies overseas and the people on the home front. He is expected to produce as much as possible for as little as possible by as few as possible.

If production is to be "stepped up" in the forthcoming year, every able-bodied student, whether amateur or professional, should be willing to do his share—that is, complete his year's school work at Easter and willingly volunteer to help out the farm labor shortage.

Getting up at 5.30 in the morning may not be your idea of a vacation but if the student is eager to learn and follow instructions, driving a team of horses won't just be plodding along hoping the horses will stop so he can and counting the minutes until quitting time, but it will give enjoyment to have old Dobbin do as he commands and it will give satisfaction to see a field of smoothly worked land which soon will be waving with golden grain. Nothing is more invigorating than walking behind a team of horses with the cool breeze fanning your brow and listening to the birds singing as they flutter from tree to tree.

An inexperienced student is not expected to fill a man's place on the farm. The good-natured farmer finds enjoyment rather than provocation in seeing the "future farmer" vainly trying to carry a roll of hay over his shoulder; the result being that the "walking haystack" falls in a miserable heap on the ground, the straw hat and owner beneath it.

To give some idea of the average working-day on a farm, it usually consists of getting up at 5 or 5.30 in the morning, feeding and watering the stock, milking the cows and then going in to breakfast about seven o'clock. After breakfast until noon, the time is spent working in the fields, which is continued in the afternoon until five o'clock, when again the chores are started and usually completed about 6.30 o'clock. In the evenings, the young farm laborers visit the old swimming pool, go to a baseball game, or perhaps take a walk under the very inviting and influential harvest moon. A good night's sleep, with no banging of milk bottles or roaring of traffic as disturbances, refreshes you for an early awakening, unless it happens to be Sunday morning when you can give a sigh of relief, wish Sundays would come oftener, roll over and go back to sleep for an hour.

But seriously speaking, no student will regret having spent the summer months on the farm working for the jovial farmer who will greatly appreciate it. Not only will he be helping the farmer but he will be earning some money for himself, to say nothing of the satisfaction of knowing that he has been "in there pitching" for the welfare of his country. Canada, now more than ever before, urges and greatly needs our (the students') help; so let's not let her down, but each one of us be willing "to plow and sow, to reap and mow and be a farmer's boy!"

Gathering the Sport Facts

Phil Wrigley, the chewing gum magnate, plus Branch Rickey and a $100,000 bank-roll, are hard at work these days organizing the new All-America Girls' Softball League, which will open on or about May 30. Four Toronto girls and a few from western Canada will receive try-outs in the new league. They are going to do all right in a monetary sense. The lowest salary will be $50 per week and they will range from this figure up to $100. Thelma Golden, the outstanding girl softball pitcher in Ontario, if not in North America, will receive top money.

v v v

The girls will wear three-quarter length skirts, instead of shorts. The plan is to attire them in the most gorgeous uniforms obtainable. Salary and expenses will be paid to all the girls during their training period as well as the regular 13-week season. If any of the girls are released they will be given two weeks' salary and expenses home.

v v v

Right now the backers of the project plan to establish clubs in the four mid-western cities of Kenosha and Racine, Wisconsin, and Gary and South Bend, Indiana. If the project proves successful they intend to move into the big major league parks during the weeks that the big clubs are on the road. Each of the teams will have a woman chaperon.

v v v

It seems as though Newmarket isn't the only place where they have union trouble. Down in York, Pa., the Red Roses, a professional ball club, ran into the same trouble. The York club, a member of the inter-state, class B league, and, like the Toronto Maple Leafs, a farm club of the Pittsburg "Pirates," had to have a new grandstand built this year. When the contractor reported that he could not get enough labor to finish painting the grandstand in time for the opening of the season on May 11, the players on the club took up the paint brushes and started to finish the job. However, they ran into a snag.

v v v

The painters' union threatened to picket the park all summer for using non-union labor. The very next day the boys were all back at their baseball chores and the stand remains unpainted.

'Round our town

"Better late than never," was the slogan of the hardballers on Tuesday evening when they held their 1943 annual meeting.

v v v

The way things look right now the league will function this year with the same three teams. The Davis Leather and Office Specialty were well represented at the meeting.

v v v

The Camp team did not have a representative on hand but Major Young sent word through President Byers that the Camp would definitely have a club in the circuit.

v v v

President Byers presided at the meeting and announced that owing to pressure of business he would be unable to carry on during 1943.

v v v

Two new vice-presidents were elected in Pete Neufeld and Carl Turan, both of whom are active players. The secretary and treasurer, Errol Gould and Bill Haskett, were re-elected.

v v v

Opening day was set for Thursday, June 3, with the two old rivals, Davis Leather and Office Specialty, meeting in the opener.

v v v

It was decided at the meeting to spend quite a large amount of money on the infield at the Stuart Scott school diamond. This should mean a better class of ball during the season.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST

The five winners of this week's contest will again receive double passes to the Strand theatre. They will have their choice of the program on Tuesday, June 1, when the rout of Rommel in Africa, called the greatest film ever made, will be seen in "Desert Victory," and Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, with Dick Powell, Priscilla Lane and Rosemary Lane, will be seen in "Varsity Show," or for Thursday, June 3, when Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone and Ann Rutherford will star in "Andy Hardy's Double Life," and Irene Hervey and Kent Taylor are featured in "Half Way to Shanghai."

This week's contest is open to everybody. It is not supposed to be easy.

The following ten words will be found (by diligent searchers) in the classifieds:

(1) T-room. What some of them use is rationed too, but it isn't tea.

(2) One of the chief products of Newmarket industry. School children sometimes get it for lack of industry.

(3) It looks like rain. Five letters.

(4) In spite of the shortage of manpower, there are lots of ------s on a farm at Aurora. It is now a golf course.

(5) Planting certain vegetables in the first quarter of the moon may be a good idea but it is always better to make ------- in full.

(6) A sleepy truck-driver came to an S-turn. Slumber overcame him and his truck over-turned. What did he have on his truck before he came to the S?

(7) He sat on the stoop eating his scrambled pie. He put in his thumb, pulled out two words, put them together, unscrambled them and he had a word that indicated that something wasn't what or where it seemed to be.

(8) Words aren't just like eggs. If you scramble them you can unscramble them. And if your words are ------ you can withdraw them. But try to unboil an egg!

(9) It is a quiet game and yet it is played with a --------.

(10) This is one of the chief materials used by one of Newmarket's industries and yet it is only a little five-letter word. Is it too hard for you?

Seven or eight correct answers might win this week. Send them in anyway. You can get them all? Oh, all right, send in ten correct answers if you can.

IN MEMORIAM

Crittenden—In loving memory of a dear little daughter, Carol Anne, who passed away May 14, 1938.

Five years have passed since the sad days,
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

—Ever remembered by mother and daddy.

Nelson—In loving memory of our dear mother, Lillian Nelson, who passed away May 29, 1942.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember her who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Always remembered by Lillie and Chris. Hansler.

DRAMA OF SEA COMES TO ROYAL

TEA PARTIES

By GOLDEN GLOW

How do you like my subject? Isn't "tea-party" a delightful word? It has such a homey, cosy sound to it! At once your mind flies to dainty china—it may not always mean a silver teapot, no, and perhaps not a special china or porcelaine teapot—a humble enamel or a Brown Betty can produce a grand cup of tea!

It isn't really the "accessories," although we must admit they really do count. We all love our tea out of a specially pretty cup, and we are intrigued with unusual accompaniments. For instance a friend of mine who loves to serve tea, and who always has some charming surprise for her guests, has a sugar-bowl, the cover of which discloses a pair of sugar tongs as you lift the lid.

I'm afraid I have not made myself clear. You see, as you lift the lid by the handle on the cover, the sugar tongs are automatically extended—the handle works the miracle—and you lift your loaf sugar and as you release your hold on the cover the sugar tongs go back into place underneath the lid. The lid is the sugar tongs! Oh dear me, I am getting myself hopelessly involved!

If I haven't made myself clear, ask me personally, and if I can't explain I'll tell you where the unique sugar-tongs live, and I know my friend will show the sugar-bowl to you if I can't make you understand my feeble explanation!

Maybe I can only speak for the feminine world. Perhaps the menfolk do not care whether they drink their "dish of tea" out of an ironstone china cup, a granite mug or a "billy-can." It is probably the tea they are interested in. But we women folk do love pretty china and sparkling crystal dishes and a silver tea-service! And a mere man wouldn't stop to inhale the fragrance of a cup of tea as you hand it to him, like we do.

"Isn't that delicious!" you'll hear one say as the aroma of freshly poured tea floats round the tea-table, and we all agree. Eyes sparkle and tongues are loosed as "the cup that cheers but not inebriates" is enjoyed and it is a time of merry jest and reminiscence.

It isn't only at the more formal tea-parties, with their lace tea-cloths and flowers and candles, the fancy sandwiches and dainty, delicate small cakes and all the goodies the hostess provides, that the cup of tea is enjoyed. No, indeed! At the Red Cross sewing meetings, the Dorcas meetings of the missionary societies, the Home and School and all such gatherings we look forward to a fragrant cup of tea. Maybe we do not make it as strong as formerly, but we all understand the reason. Maybe we do not have the usual old-time raisin bread and butter—we all understand why. But we have found substitutes, and when it comes down to facts, I feel that it is the cup of tea, not what we have to eat with it, that really counts. A refreshing cup of tea can do wonders for everybody!

Tea-urns, teapots, tea-cosies, teacups and saucers, grand words all of them, picturesque too! The silver tea-urn at the head of the table, offering its unlimited supply of steaming hot tea. The lovely teapots of so many and so interesting designs—one I recall with pleasure shaped like an elephant, and the lid is the hoodah on its back. The tall old china teapots of our grandmother's day, all pure white with gold bands, the square-shaped ones of the old blue willow pattern, the treasured lustre set, now so very rare, the Chinese teapots with the many Chinese figures on, of mandarins with their fans and little China boys with their "piggy-tailee." Then the delightful tea-cosies, all sorts and shapes.

One pleasant one I always took special delight in is made to resemble a doll. The doll's head is over the lid, while her skirts composed the cosy around the body of the teapot. One year at Toronto exhibition I saw hundreds of tea-cosies in a contest by the Salada Tea Co., and were there ever some beauties! I'm afraid I spent much too long admiring them, for I quite lost track of time, and in consequence the rest of the folk I was with lost me. I fear they thought a hundred or so tea-cosies a very lame excuse!

I will own up I am a "tea-granny," and I love teapots and pretty china cups and saucers. And if anyone tells you there are no such things as the old-fashioned little tea saucers, to set your cup on while you cool your tea in your saucer, don't believe them, for I know there are because I own two myself! They were given to me over 25 years ago, and the dear old Quaker lady who gave them to me told me what they were for and also told me they had belonged to her grandmother, which made them well over a hundred years old even then. So I have proof positive, you see.

Officers And N.C.O.'s Spend Weekend Outdoors

Officers and senior N.C.O.'s of C Coy., 2nd battalion, Queen's York Rangers, spent the weekend on manoeuvres at Shadow Lake.

The party included Capt. Earl Bales, Lieuts. J. L. R. Bell, D. E. Wade, D. Babcock and W. I. Hearst, C.S.M. Alfred Headley, Sgts. Harold Sleigh, Clarence Doolittle, Tommy Bartlett, Chas. Ellis, Jack Orr, Howard Bunn, George Shoults and L.-Cpl. Doug. Tunney.

The party had all meals outdoors, slept in cabins, and did 24 hours of commando training, fieldcraft, Bren gun and mortars. The scheme was under the direction of Lieut.-Col. J. H. Bennett and Capt. Wm. Hunt. N.C.O.'s and officers were present from all companies of the county unit.

Thinks Chiropractors Should Be Included

"Many people will be amazed to learn that the government has neglected to provide for the services of chiropractors or osteopaths under the proposed compulsory national health insurance act," writes J. R. Harrison, D.C., Windsor, formerly of Aurora.

"Since the proposed compulsory national health insurance act is so broad in scope and will apply to all it would seem essential that every viewpoint be considered carefully before its enactment into law and thus this letter," writes Mr. Harrison.

"I am a chiropractor, practising in Ontario under provincial license for 18 years. In the fall of 1918 I contracted flu, which developed into pneumonia and left me a physical wreck, till next spring being urged to try chiropractic I went to a chiropractor at Melfort, Sask. What he did for me made such an impression, in spite of the fact that both my grandparents and father were medical doctors, that I decided to make this new method of healing my lifework and so I went to the Toronto College of Chiropractic and graduated there.

"Since that time thousands of cases have passed through my hands, the majority coming to me after trying other methods first. At least 80 percent of all cases have obtained results satisfactory to them and many could not put a money value on the benefit received.

"Why cannot provision be made under the proposed bill so that chiropractors like myself can continue to give such service to our fellow citizens? Why also should the art and science of chiropractic be ignored by the dominion government when it is recognized by four provinces in Canada and 46 states in the U.S.A.? Hundreds of insurance companies grant favorable recognition to policyholders' claims after receiving chiropractic attention, including such well-known companies as the Prudential, Aetna, Atlas, etc. Here in Ontario chiropractors receive recognition under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and the minimum educational standard is junior matriculation and a four-year course of nine months in each year.

"Why should people who want manipulative treatment be forced to go to a medical doctor any more than people should be forced to go to a medical doctor for dental work? In each case it would seem logical that the services of a man who specializes in such work and who has made a detailed study of it be employed. Even if a medical doctor was qualified to perform dentistry or manipulative work, he cannot spare time from his other duties and these duties would doubtless suffer some neglect were he to attempt to do both.

"Let every branch of the healing art place the interests of the patient first and then co-operate when necessary to obtain the best results in the shortest time, always remembering that the greatest harmony and efficiency result from diversity in unison and not through enforced conformity.

"The freedom for which the United Nations are fighting cannot be confined to any four specific spheres but must include every human activity and most important of all their physical well-being."

Don't wait until Sunday to pray individually for fine weather, but let Sunday be a special day of supplication."

King Township Leads District In 4th Loan

Aurora made a splendid upward drive toward the $200,000 objective during the last three days of last week, and reached the splendid total of $184,050. Citizens were disappointed not to reach the objective but were proud of what was accomplished.

North York went over the top with $2,319,850 against a general canvass objective of $2,150,000, and a total of $2,986,950 including special names.

North York led the Toronto suburbs district known as the central division both on the general canvass and the special names.

King passed its objective with $253,350 (objective $235,000). Whitchurch reached $132,150 (objective $160,000).

Stouffville was outstanding with $148,200 (objective $90,000). Woodbridge did almost equally well with $143,300 (objective $90,000).

Markham reached $305,600 (objective $270,000), Vaughan $285,500 (objective $270,000).

W. L. Milgate, Aurora, won the chairman's prize of $25 for the best salesman last week. W. W. A. Trench, Richmond Hill, won second prize of $15.

The success of the loan throughout North York was considered at Victory loan headquarters to be to a great extent due to the ready co-operation found everywhere, as typified by the action of Aurora's ex-mayor, J. M. Walton, in visiting 57 schools making arrangements for the quiz contest and then himself giving the prizes for the finals held at Aurora high school.

"Quill" Commemorates Men Who Have "Gone On"

Aurora high school students have published the second edition of their school paper, "The Quill." The first page is in memory of former students who have given their lives for their country, William Pagan, George Davis, Robert Turp and Perry King, with the following quotation from Lawrence Binyon:

"They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We shall remember them."

The paper describes school activities since Christmas. The junior basketball team won the interscholastic North York championship, winning all games played. The interform champions in the girls' competition were grade 11.

Volleyball brought new interest to the school, and grade 8 won the interform championship. Winners and runners-up were presented with crests in the morning assembly before Easter.

The staff of "The Quill" included: co-editors, Joan Chalk, Henry Westcott and Charles Seath; social editor, Barbara Gilbert; boys' athletics, Peter King; girls' athletics, Barbara Walker. The cover design was by Frances Moore and the "printer" was Mary Frances Bowman.

WANT "OPEN AIR" DANCES

The regular weekly dances held on Saturdays at Mechanics' hall by the Aurora fire brigade came to a close until fall last Saturday night. One of the largest crowds of the season was present. War charities will shortly benefit from the net proceeds.

So popular have been the dances that many patrons have requested the firemen to lay a floor and run open air dances in the town park, but no decision has been arrived at.

"She thinks no man is good enough for her."

"She may be right."

"Yes, and she may be left."

DOWN THE CENTRE

Income tax and other imposts necessary because of the war play such a big part in civilian lives these days that we can't help repeating a story that we heard recently. It seems Yvon Robert, the Habitant wrestling star and ex-world champ of the grunt and groan game, was displaying his strength by taking an orange in his hand and squeezing it to a pulp. The spectators thought there wasn't a drop left, when up stepped a thin, bald man who stole the whole scene by squeezing several more drops from the orange. On being asked his name, he answered quietly, "I am J. L. Ilsley." Robert, by the way, is a member of a Montreal reserve army unit and is teaching the boys the art of unarmed combat.

Clair Exelby is enthused over his softball team at Newmarket camp this year and is optimistic over the team's chances. "With a few additions in a couple of weeks we hope to have a team capable of going further than last year's district champs," he says.

Cecil Brown, the fireball hurler, is again heading the pitching staff and now sports two hooks. He is definitely capable of holding his own in senior B softball.

"Pinkey" Higgins, last year with Stratford, is the number two hurler and he comes to Newmarket with a fine reputation as one of the best in western Ontario.

Mitchell, a hold-over from last season and a steady if unspectacular performer, is at the initial sack, while the rest of the infield is composed of L-Cpl. Coffee of Toronto, Cleary who was seen in action at Aurora last year in a Red Cross benefit game, and Tpr. DeRosie, who has had senior experience in the Dentonia circuit.

Al. Wysinski, L-Cpl. Valliere and Tpr. Buchowsky, all from northern Ontario, form a faster fielding outfield than last season. Exelby is doing the catching at present, but expects to get a first-class assistant in the next draft.

Lieut. Thos. George is working day and night to make the Newmarket camp the leading training centre in sports, and Capt. Kerr, the auxiliary services captain at Newmarket, is co-manager, with C.S.M. Syd ("Flicker") Bowman as disciplinarian and chief supporter. There is no Sally Ann at Newmarket now. The army has taken it over and manned (or rather femaled) the staff with girls from the C.W.A.C. A large part of the dry canteen funds is now ticketed for sports equipment. Hope to be able to bring down a team from Borden to compete with the Newmarket club. We have been placed in charge of softball at our centre by the R.S.M., but owing to a reorganization of the entire armored corps training have not been able to know definitely what players are or will be available for duty. This, of course, will right itself in a few weeks time.

Howard Leonard, fresh out of hospital, is likely to handle the softballers at the Angus R.C.A.F. centre and, as our charges are in the same group, we look forward to a lot of fun in the masterminding business. We enjoyed watching Leonard handle the Angus Bombers in action on the intermediate hockey front the past winter and we know he would like to get a bit of revenge over Orillia, Newmarket and Brampton for those losses sustained on the ice.

Billy Hainsworth, who a few years ago guarded the nets for Waterloo juniors as they eliminated Aurora Tigers and then went to Oshawa as understudy for Markham's Dick Schad, was in the cage this winter for the winning R.C.A.F. hockey team overseas. Cpl. Woody Dumart, member of the famous Boston Bruins kraut line, was a member of the same team.

Phil Vitale, former hardballer at Newmarket camp, now with the Queen's Yorks, has been promoted to sergeant and is planning some baseball activities for the Yorks.

Dick Fowler, last year with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, is not at Newmarket camp now. He has been moved to Brantford, where the army is forming a strong baseball team. The good athletes sure get moved around fast but generally wind up in a spot where they are needed.

Soccer was delayed until this week at Newmarket camp, as the finishing touches were completed on the field and general preparations for a stiff season intensified. So far as the group goes, with whom the Newmarket team are in competition, DeHaviland, Mimico Beach and Toronto R.C.A.F. appear to be the teams to beat. No. 2 District Depot is also strong. Newmarket, however, will be able to hold its own, with several northern Ontario and western cup stars as the nucleus of the team.

Don Clapper, eldest of the three Clapper brothers, is located now in Windsor, where he is employed with the customs department. We had several inquiries about him following our mention of "Scotty" Clapper last week. Don was a three-sport performer when in Aurora and a pretty fair third-baseman in hardball. Along with the late Dr. E. V. ("Gene") Underhill, he was one of the central figures in a lacrosse tragedy in the early 20's.

As we recall it, Aurora junior lacrosse team reached the O.A.L.A. finals after downing a series of strong teams en route. The team wore white sweaters with a nifty red trim and boasted one of the best line-ups ever to represent the district. Gene Underhill was in goal, with Bob McLeod, Alfie Brodie, "Dooley" Butler, Cliff. Harman, Gordon ("Rast") Harmon, Charlie ("Kid") Harman, the late George Hart, Billy Epworth, Arnold Mollenhauer, Ganton and Traviss from Newmarket, Don. Clapper and several others being under the tutelage of Billy Clapper and the late Fred Browning. In the finals they met the famous Toronto Beaches club coached by the redoubtable Eddie Longfellow, and having such players as Al. Coutie and Art. Pimm on their roster. Before over 1,000 spectators, the Aurora boys bested the Beaches by two goals in Aurora town park and appeared headed for the championship. The return match was carded for Scarboro Beach park in Toronto the next Saturday and the betting favored the North Yorkers.

In those days no substitutes were allowed once a game got under way and when starting time came on the fatal day there was no Gene Underhill on hand to guard the portals. As Gene had played sensationally the whole season, the boys, then teen-agers, were greatly upset and having no goalie available were forced to put Don. Clapper in goal. Don had been stick boy most of the season and in any case was not a goaltender. So the Aurora team wilted and Beaches trounced them handily. Due to a mix-up in street-car arrangements Gene had made the wrong street car connections and arrived too late at Scarboro Beach to start the game. However, the officials stuck by the rules, as did Beaches, and refused to allow him in the game, thereby handing the championship on a platter to the home club.

"Kid" Harman and Billy Epworth were the offensive stars of the team, with Bob McLeod and Underhill, the big defence cogs. It was a heart-breaker for the team, supporters and Underhill, who like most of the North York boys was not too familiar with the directions in the big city at that time. If only there had been a third game the story might have been different but it was on a goals-to-count basis. Most of those fellows went on to play star senior and intermediate lacrosse. Billy Clapper, Don's father, is located in New Toronto now and still faithfully follows lacrosse as his health permits him.

Ordnance Corps have a team entered in the Davisville league against Newmarket camp and we note several of the players are the same as those performing for the R.C.O.C. at Camp Borden. The local depot is ready to enter a softball club in a local league but if it does the other clubs will undoubtedly want some assurance that these players and others in Toronto will not suddenly pop up in competition that is purely town league in calibre. If this could be arranged, to prevent a recurrence of the hockey situation, a league is, from all we can learn, ready at hand, with Case's Aces, Roy Middlebrook, Ordnance and Sisman's as definite starters. The parties should get together in a round-table discussion. Staff Simpson, who handled the Aurora Ordnance champions, and Billy Smith are in charge of main softball organizations for R.C.O.C.

Juvenile lacrosse, as suggested by Cliff Gunn and Bill Haskett, appears to be a dead issue in Aurora. The kids are ready and willing to play but those who might lend a hand know little about lacrosse and seem reticent to take a plunge into the unknown. Those who do know lacrosse are not anxious to take charge. The Newmarket management would be well advised to try and get Lindsay ("Pete") Harman and Harry Sutton interested in the proposition.

Bradford should be a certain entry into a district league if approached, while both Sutton and Richmond Hill are blessed with grown-ups who will take a wholehearted interest in promoting sports for the youngsters. We hope the new venture pans out well, but it will take quite a bit of effort. The arenas at all centres are still veritable quagmires and it takes quite a few weeks to build up a surface suitable for boxla. If the league is to go on, action on the rinks is an immediate necessity. Personally, we would like to see Saturday afternoon or twilight field lacrosse played again.

So far as genuine lacrosse fans are concerned, we know nothing can ever take the place of those golden hours spent in the open air watching youthful limbs swing the gutted stick.

Three musketeers were on Aurora streets last Sunday in '43 streamlined fashion. We refer to the schoolboys of yesterday, inseparable comrades after school, on the gym floor and playing field: P.O. Craig McKenzie, LAC Anson Gilbert and LAC Doug. Nisbet. It seems only yesterday we saw the trio play basketball or cut a rug. Now in airforce blue, the threesome are playing a bigger game than any they've played before. McKenzie is now an officer and officially "sir" to the others. A few months more and these young captains of the clouds will be on their way overseas. It was a mighty nice picture, even though a grim one under the surface.

Alex. Kirkwood has donated some bats, baseball and equipment for local youngsters to start playing hardball.

Bill Holloway and yours truly waited on Mr. Kirkwood on Sunday and secured the remaining equipment, minus uniforms, of Aurora's last hardball team, the Blue Ribbons. Holloway, along with Leon. Simmons and one or two other Aurora sportsmen, hopes to be able to get a midget and juvenile series going and if things are ripe will be prepared to stack Aurora youngsters against similar age lads in Newmarket and elsewhere. The experiment will need a bit of effort but if we know the kids they will be ready and willing to practise and learn the fine points of the game.

For over 15 years Mr. Kirkwood was a substantial backer of hardball here but never said much about financial beatings. The present equipment owes him about $65 but he is ready to give a hand again to see hardball come back locally to its pristine position on the sports map. Holloway, incidentally, has played plenty of hardball, especially with Acton and Milton, and in the days of Harry Filkin came here to work and play baseball but returned to Acton to play hockey. He can be depended upon to do a good job. Doubtless the Newmarket town league will be prepared to do something about encouraging minor hardball in canal-town. If the league shouldn't function there is a ready-made task in hand for the executive to perform. If the league does function, those in charge should remember that, unless replacements are brought along in the next few years, it will die a natural death. Kids interested in the proposition should give their names to Bill Holloway or Leon. Simmons.

Twenty-seven years is a long time for one man to compete actively in a sport. Yet that is the record of Waldon Kennedy of Kentville, N.S. A left-winger in hockey, Kennedy suffered the loss of an eye in an accident this spring, to terminate his hockey career at the age of 41. For six years he played for Wolfville, one year for Halifax and the remainder for Kentville. Most of those years were as a senior player but only in 1927 did he play on a championship team when Kentville won the Maritimes hockey crown. We doubt if any other man in Canada ever played as long in any really hard hitting sport. McFadden of Seaforth Beavers has played close to 20 years and is still going strong.

Ralph Barber, former second baseman with Uxbridge in the York-Simcoe league, and Hal Mooney, who played hockey with Aurora Ordnance this winter and baseball for Acton, are both candidates for the No. 2 District Depot hardball team, which will play in the national sandlot baseball congress. Sgt. "Red" Garner of Richmond Hill is conditioning the team, which boasts quite a few big names in amateur baseball. Several players at Newmarket camp are said to be counted on by the depot boys for their ultimate lineup. Bill Smith, former trainer of the Toronto baseball club, is the trainer.

"Pepper" Martin, now a sub-lieutenant with the navy at Windsor, is called "Pard" by the sports writers and public in his own district. Seems there was already a Pepper Martin locally when Harold flashed on the athletic horizon in rugby, softball and hockey at Wallaceburg, St. Andrew's college and Aurora. Jim McVean, big middle-winger and defenceman in hockey for the college about the same time as Martin, is also a naval "looey" and located in Windsor.

Newmarket camp lost the league opener at Davisville 7-2 to Bowser A.C. but showed enough to please the fans. Major N. M. Young of the camp took the salute as the camp pipe band headed a parade of players, officials and military personnel in the opening ceremonies. This same Bowser club then turned around and handed a 9-6 defeat to Ordnance in an exhibition game.

SHARON JUNIOR FARMERS ORGANIZE SWINE CLUB

Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn, Newmarket, reports that the program of boys' club work is progressing favorably. The two dairy calf clubs sponsored by the Markham and Woodbridge agricultural societies each promise to have a larger membership than last year. At present 30 members of the Woodbridge club and 20 members of the Markham club have signed up with calves.

The north end of the county offers the boys an opportunity through the formation of a swine club sponsored by the Sharon Junior Farmers. This is the first swine club to be organized in York county for some time. Already 20 boys have their pair of young sows and five or six others are interested.

Plans are being made to hold the organization meetings of each club in the near future. The boys will be informed of their respective meetings well in advance.

QUEENSVILLE LADY'S FATHER DIES, WAS 86

QUEENSVILLE

After a short illness, Henry Penrose, 498 Murray St., Peterboro, passed away at his home on Sunday, May 9, in his 87th year.

Born in England, a son of the late Johnson Penrose and Eliza Bailey, Mr. Penrose resided in Peterboro for more than 30 years. He was a stone mason by trade.

Surviving are six sons, Johnson of Fenelon Falls, Richard and Henry of Minden, Charles, Arthur and William of Detroit; four daughters, Mrs. Geo. Barton (Ellen) of Richmond Hill, Mrs. Robt. Johnson (Gertrude) of Queensville, Mrs. Frederick Lodge (Emma) of Lindsay, and Mrs. Chas. James (Annie) of Norwood. There is one brother, Charles Penrose, of New York, 33 grandchildren and 50 great-grandchildren. The remains were taken by train on May 11 to Kinmount, then by motor to St. John's Anglican church, Minden. Interment was made in Minden cemetery. His six sons were pallbearers.

These are hard days for the farmers. The continuous wet weather is discouraging and they need all the grit that life can muster, but they are not alone in their distress, as parts of the west are also suffering. One of the local boys, who is home from a British Columbia training camp, said that as he came through Saskatoon last weekend there was six inches of snow on the ground and the temperature below zero. When he left the coast they were enjoying bright sunshine with a temperature of 102.

The last report coming from the Victory loan campaign headquarters for the Queensville district was $24,000. Considering that the objective was $19,000, the result was exceedingly gratifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stickwood, who have been living in Sharon, have returned to reside in Queensville. They will occupy the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who have moved to Toronto.

NONE BETTER LOOKED AFTER, SAYS SOLDIER

"I wish to express my sincere thanks to the Newmarket Veterans for the three hundred cigarettes I received last week," writes Cpl. S. A. Dow, thanking the Newmarket Veterans Soldiers' Comforts fund for cigarettes. "They have been held up for some time as I have transferred to a new unit.

"I have met a number of the boys from Newmarket since I came over here and they are all loud in their praise and appreciation of the different organizations of Newmarket that keep sending us cigarettes and parcels. It is my firm belief that there is not one town in Canada that can say her boys overseas are looked after better or sent more through their different clubs and organizations than the town of Newmarket.

"Thanking the Veterans again for the cigarettes and wishing them the best of luck for the future."

"Your welcome gift of cigarettes have arrived and once more I appreciate your thoughtfulness," Capt. J. G. Cock writes the Veterans, thanking them for cigarettes. "No doubt the satisfaction of being well supplied with 'fags' is all too vivid to you lads.

"Since your last batch reached me, I have moved. I am no longer R.M.O. with the R.C.D.'s, but am with a field dressing station—a new establishment since your time. The work will be far more 'medical' than with a fighting unit so I am quite pleased with the change.

"We have had the driest spring in the history of the 'oldest inhabitant,' which will be a marked contrast to the Salisbury Plain days of 1914-18. Fortunately, heavy rainfall last autumn held in the sod pretty well so that it does not seem to have affected the crops to any great extent—yet.

"This is Easter Sunday and the church bells—finally released by the government—greeted us with chimes this morning."

"Many thanks for the smokes which I received last week and which were very welcome," Pte. Joe Darrach says in a card to the Veterans. "I've seen a few of the town boys and most of them receive smokes from your club. We have had some nice weather lately, which we all appreciate over here."

"Received your wonderful gift parcel of cigarettes today and I want to thank you one and all for the same," LAC Bill Dougan writes the Veterans. "You have no idea how good a Canadian cigarette is when you are out on the Egyptian desert. And now I want to thank you again and hope to see you all soon."

"I am very thankful to you and the rest of the boys for all the smokes you have sent to me, as I have only smoked since I came over here," writes Cpl. E. Tunstead to the Veterans. "I guess I am like all other boys. We are all glad to get things from home I also want to thank Mrs. King of the Red Cross and her helpers, who sent me a nice box and some warm knitted apparel, which came in very handy. I hope we will all soon be home and can have a nice talk together."

Cards of appreciation were received from Tpr. C. W. Hoover, Sgmn. A. Cox and Jr. Fireman Wm. C. Druery.

TELLS HOW TO COMBAT ELM LEAF MINER PEST

Many Newmarket elm trees have been attacked by an insect in recent years, causing the leaves to turn brown early in the summer. Now is the time to do something about it, according to the provincial entomologist, R. W. Thompson.

The Era and Express sent leaves from Newmarket elm trees to the department last summer and received the following reply from Mr. Thompson:

"The elm leaves which you sent in are attacked by an insect known as the elm leaf miner. This insect, that is, the real miner, is the immature or worm stage of a sawfly. These insects winter over in the soil and then usually in late May or early June emerge as four-winged flies and lay their eggs on the elm foliage.

"There is relatively little which can be done in the line of control by sprays, since the insect shortly after hatching from the egg works between the two surfaces of the leaf. Some success is claimed, however, from treating the soil beneath infested trees with paradichlorobenzine crystals. This material, which can be obtained at the drug store, should be scattered over the surface of all soil beneath the tree and for a distance of about two feet beyond the spread of the widest branches. The rate at which to use this material is one pound to 100 square feet of surface.

"This treatment should be given about the time that the elm buds are just nicely beginning to break and preferably during a spell of warm weather. Some individuals claim that it is more satisfactory to cover the crystals with burlap or some such covering in order to prevent wind from dispersing the fumes which volatize from the crystals. It is probable, however, that without covering considerable good could be accomplished since the gas given off by the crystals is about three and a half times heavier than air and consequently sinks through the soil to the level at which the sawflies are overwintering.

"You will find, I think, that Camperdown elms are more heavily infested than any other species of elm."

Sleeps In Straw Stacks, "Makes One Feel Good"

"I wish again to thank the Newmarket Veterans' Association for the parcel of cigarettes which I received this week and to again express my appreciation of the exertions they are making for the local boys over here." Spr. Harry Moss writes the Newmarket Veterans Association, thanking them for cigarettes.

"I am keeping quite well. We have fortunately had a remarkably mild winter here and which I think must be almost a record one for sunshine. As a result trees have been in blossom here over a month now and everything seems to be leafing or budding out.

"It really looks as though we shall see action pretty soon now, and about time too. Great activity prevails and if the Canadian corps doesn't give a good account of itself it won't be for want of training anyway. Let's hope the summer will see Jerry's finish."

"Just a line to say I received your parcel of cigarettes and believe me they sure were a godsend as I had been without for nearly a month and buying them at two shillings for 20." Sgt. Vic. Bridges says in a card to the Veterans. "With what you give away and smoke yourself 20 only last a day. So when I write and say how grateful I am for them it is no kidding, or as they say over here 'pulling your leg.' So many thanks and good luck to all the comrades and those who help to make the fund possible."

"Just a few lines wishing to thank you for the carton of cigarettes you sent me," writes Sgmn. F. J. Lusted. "They sure were well appreciated as I had just come off a five-week scheme and was low in everything, especially cigarettes. Thanks a million.

"The weather over here has been swell for the past month. Hardly any rain during the past 28 days. We have been camping out for the past four weeks, sleeping in bushes, straw stacks, etc. Sure does make one feel good, though.

"I hear Canada has had a pretty severe winter this season. Do I ever miss the ice and snow, but perhaps before another winter rolls around all the Newmarket lads will be back home again to enjoy a good old Canadian winter.

"I have only been over here a few months but have already met quite a few of the home-town boys. Three of us got together one weekend and had ourselves a time in good old London.

"Well, I believe that's all for now, so once again thank you for the cigarettes. Wishing your club all the success in the world."

"Kindly accept my thanks for the cigarettes which have just arrived from you today," Pilot-Officer Gordon Ough writes the Veterans. "They could not have arrived at a better time because only this morning I opened my last package of Canadian smokes and was not exactly looking forward to resorting to some of these native brands.

"I sincerely hope your club will be able to carry on with the excellent work it is doing for the boys overseas."

A card of appreciation has been received by the Veterans from Pte. H. Traviss.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103
Dodd's Kidney Pills

MRS. A. J. SCHWARTZ discovered what the real trouble was. Continual backaches, getting up nights and constipation came from an inactive liver. Fruit-a-tives quickly made her feel fine—no pain, sleeps well, always regular. Buck up YOUR liver with Fruit-a-tives, Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets.

POLICE COURT

Convicts Of Careless Driving In Accident

Concluding that the defendant, Mrs. Valdie V. Green, Bayfield Ave., Barrie, was not guilty of criminal negligence but rather of driving in a manner dangerous to others using the highway, when the car she was driving on April 1 struck a seven-year-old child on Yonge St., north of Aurora, causing serious injuries, Magistrate W. E. McIlveen in York county police court on Tuesday, fined her $10 and costs of $21.50 on a careless driving charge.

On a third charge, failing to have a 1943 operator's license, to which she pleaded guilty, the defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Dr. Crawford Rose, Aurora physician, who attended Cornelius Moynihan, the injured child, at York county hospital, told his worship that when he examined the child at about 4 p.m., shortly after the accident, he found him unconscious and suffering from a fractured skull, leg injuries and abrasions on the face and head. He stated that a Dr. Pratt, of St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, performed two operations on the child's head because of injuries within the skull. He said that at present he is in St. Michael's hospital, but that although the child's eyes are open he had not regained consciousness as yet.

"Could you tell us anything as regards the boy's future?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"Dr. Pratt said that the injuries to the brain are extensive, but that it is too early to state to what extent," replied Dr. Rose. "He said that the forecast for the future is very grave."

"Isn't it true that the boy has youth on his side and that he has more chance of recovery than an older person, say a person of my age?" asked defence counsel, Mr. Thompson.

"No, it is not true," replied Dr. Rose. "It is curious, but in brain injuries an older person has more chance of recovery than a child has."

Mrs. McKee, who at the time the charges were laid was Miss Grace Ronald, of Minesing, Simcoe county, told his worship that she had been driving the car from Barrie to Toronto and on reaching Bradford had given the wheel to Mrs. Green. She stated that they were driving south on a three-lane highway, south of Newmarket, when she noticed a child walking along the east shoulder of the highway about 200 feet further along the road.

"He was alone," the witness stated. "He looked back at us. Just as we approached he turned, put down his head and ran across in front of us. Mrs. Green went away out to avoid him. She even went so far out that the car turned right around facing north."

"What speed were you going?" asked the crown. "At about 35 or 40 miles an hour," replied the witness.

Mrs. McKee went on to say that Mrs. Green had put the brakes on as soon as she saw the child start across the road.

"Did the boy give any indication that he was going to cross the road?" asked the crown.

"No, we were surprised," she said. "Mrs. Green had no chance to avoid him."

"Mrs. Green is even a more experienced driver than I am," she said. "I couldn't have done better myself."

Eric Moynihan, R. R. 3, Aurora, father of the injured child, stated that his farm is about one and a half miles north of Aurora and a short distance south of where the accident occurred. He said that a short distance beyond that was the school which the child attended.

"The visibility on that day was very good," Provincial Constable Howard Jackman stated. "A person could see about a third of a mile away."

The officer said that skid marks on the road measured 124 feet in length and that the point of impact as indicated by a spot of blood on the road was five feet east of the west edge of the highway.

Found guilty on a charge of taking meat and groceries valued at $6.73 from a Newmarket grocery store, a Whitchurch township woman was placed on suspended sentence for six months upon payment of costs of $14.50.

Previous to the hearing of the evidence, the crown stated that the store management had expressed their wish to have the charge withdrawn.

According to Andrew Whyte, manager of the store, on April 16, his attention was drawn to the defendant in the store when she picked up a piece of cheese and put it into one of two shopping bags which she carried in addition to the usual store basket. He stated that he went to the rear of the store and when he returned the lady had left the store.

"I knew she had not had time to pass by the cashier's desk, as there was quite a line-up of people," stated the witness. "I didn't do anything at the time. Ten or 15 minutes later I noticed the defendant in the store again. She didn't have one of the shopping bags. I went up to the front of the store to see if she had left it near the cashier's desk. The basket was there on the floor, but not the bag."

Mr. Whyte went on to say that he again went to the rear of the store and returning noticed the lady leaving the store without going by the cashier's desk.

"Ten or 15 minutes later she came back into the store for the third time, picked up the basket and went to the cash register," continued Mr. Whyte.

He added that later his assistant, Ronald Neilly, called him out of the store and that both of them waited near the defendant's car until she returned from another store. He then told her that there was merchandise in her car for which she had not paid.

She said there was a quantity of meat and that it was too hot in the store, Mr. Whyte said. She said that she was waiting for her son to return to give her some money to pay for them.

When he checked the articles in the presence of the accused lady, he said, she produced a $10 bill to pay for them.

Mr. Neilly stated that the lady went into the store a fourth time and purchased some candy. He called Mr. Whyte and was present when the latter accused her of taking the articles.

In her defence the woman stated that she had taken the articles out to the car, as the store was hot. She denied having any intention of stealing and said that she had no necessity of doing so. She denied that she had taken the tea and coffee produced in court. She said that while selecting her groceries another woman had put some parcels into her basket by mistake and that she had given two articles to the clerk, as they did not belong to her.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Mathews the defendant admitted that she had neglected to tell the cashier who checked the articles in the basket that she had other parcels in the car.

"This woman might have been foolish," stated Mr. Callaghan, counsel for the defence. "But she had no intention of stealing. It was very foolish, I admit, but I would hate to brand her as a thief."

Finding Garnet Lindsay, Newmarket, guilty on charges of careless driving and failing to have a 1943 operator's license, Magistrate McIlveen fined him $10 and costs of $11.60, or ten days on the former charge, and $10 and costs of $1 on the latter. The defendant pleaded guilty to both offences.

According to Francis G. Godfrey, Willowdale, while driving along the Bradford flats at 10 p.m. on April 22, he noticed a car coming towards him on the middle of the road. He said that in an attempt to avoid the approaching car he drove on the shoulder of the road, but that the other vehicle suddenly swerved into his car, causing damages of about $300 to his car. He stated that there were three or four in the defendant's car, all of whom were under the influence of liquor. He said that the driver, Mr. Lindsay, alone was sober.

County Constable Ronald Watt told his worship that he found Mr. Lindsay in a sober condition.

"I understand that the owner of the car had taken the boy to Bradford in order to have him drive back," stated the officer.

Silas Wilson, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs for travelling at 70 miles an hour on Yonge St. R. H. Lunny, Camp Borden, was fined $15 and costs for travelling at 50 miles an hour.

John James Byrne, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs for not having a 1943 operator's license, Clarence Mundy, Bradford, and Luxura Tea Co., Toronto, were each fined $7 and costs, and the department of health, New Toronto, was fined $5 and costs for exceeding the speed limit in Newmarket. Constable Kenneth Mount laid the last three charges.

POLICE COURT

YOUTH HAS WINE AT DANCE, FINED $17

"Boys 18 and 19 years of age have no business having liquor," Magistrate W. N. Robinson told an 18-year-old Toronto boy in York county police court, Newmarket, on Tuesday. The youth was found guilty on a charge of illegal possession of liquor and fined $10 and costs of $7. His worship ordered the wine confiscated.

According to County Constable William Hill, Sutton, on May 1, at 11.30 p.m. he came across the youth in front of a dance hall at Pefferlaw with a bottle of sherry in his hand. The officer said that the defendant was trying to hide the bottle behind the spare tire of a parked car.

"Had he been drinking?" questioned Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"Yes," replied the officer.

The youth denied that he had been hiding the bottle of wine, and said that it had been given to him by another person in the dance hall to hold. He admitted that he and three other youths had consumed a bottle of wine earlier in the evening.

Questioned as to how he and the other youths had obtained the bottle of wine which they had consumed, he said that they had gone to a store at Scarboro, where they asked a man who was standing outside the store and who had a permit, to purchase it for them.

"Don't you know that it is illegal for you to purchase liquor or to have someone else purchase it for you?" asked the crown.

The youth admitted that he knew that it was illegal.

"It is an offence for minors to have liquor," stated his worship. "However, I am of the opinion that you are telling the truth and I am just going to fine you $10 and costs."

Pleading guilty to travelling at 47 miles an hour in North Gwillimbury, Ethel McClure, Keswick, was fined $15 and costs. Also pleading guilty to travelling at 50 miles an hour in North Gwillimbury, Saul Bookspan, Toronto, was given a similar fine.

Unveil Honor Roll At Youth Sunday Service

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Shields of Toronto and Mrs. Royce of Hamilton were guests on Sunday of Mrs. Harmon and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Shields.

Capt. W. L. Carruthers of Brantford spent the weekend at his home in town.

A fine service was held in the United church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, on Sunday morning when the young people took charge. It was empire youth Sunday. Miss Velma Thompson, president of the Y.P.S., was assisted by Miss Westcott and Miss Marion Gibney and Murray Pegg. Jim Harrison, Murray Rutledge and Lorne Gibney, who each took a part in the service. A large choir of young people, under the leadership of Roy Stewart, and the organist, Mrs. Haigh, sang acceptably two numbers and led in the hymns.

At the close of the service a beautiful honor roll was unveiled by W. Campbell, and Mrs. W. L. Carruthers read the names inscribed on it and also read a resolution of sympathy from the church board to the family of Pilot-Officer Jack Willbee, who has been reported missing since February.

Rev. W. H. Burgess thanked Miss Alice Seemen, who did the printing of the names so beautifully on the honor roll. The service closed with the national anthem and the benediction.

The young people went to Hartman church in the afternoon and gave the service there.

Mr. Wm. Burgess spent a few days at his home at the parsonage before leaving for a mission field in southern Alberta for the summer.

The ladies decided to ask for a short course on time-saving in the kitchen.

The delegates to the district annual meeting are Mrs. W. D. Stokes and Mrs. H. Shillinglaw.

The ladies decided they would not serve supper on sports day. Owing to rationing, it will not be possible to get supplies.

Mrs. Wheeldon, who lived here some years ago, has returned from Toronto to make her home here and is living on the hill, in Mr. Thompson's house.

Saturday, June 5, is Mount Albert sports day. The Red Cross will have the booth and serve lunches and there will be sports and amusements for all.

The Women's Institute have a good report for the last year. They held 11 meetings and have a membership of 88. The receipts for the year were $275.93 and expenditures were $243.65, so they have a balance of $30.28 to commence work for this year. They gave $20.36 to the central Ontario fund to buy sugar and assist in getting a mobile kitchen. They gave $77.86 to the Navy League and filled 15 ditty bags.

They assisted the Red Cross by donations and gifts for the Christmas boxes for boys in the services. They knit 38 pairs of socks, which were given to local boys and sent to the Navy League. Books and magazines were also sent to sailors.

They put first aid kits in the schools of the community and held a Hallowe'en party for the community. The money was raised by teas and donations. They sponsored the A.R.P. and home nursing courses of the Red Cross, under Mrs. G. W. E. Macpherson.

The horticultural society has some nice flower-beds around the village and they won't be offended if residents clean them up if there is one near their home, or even put more plants in.

When burning grass, residents are asked to please be careful of the little trees that have been planted on the streets, as they are small yet and must be taken care of. It is too bad to have them destroyed, for they will soon grow and make the streets look much nicer.

CEDAR HEDGE, PLANTED IN 1884, IS REMOVED

By GOLDEN GLOW

If you take a walk along Church St. south, you will find another old landmark gone. It is the bushy cedar hedge in front of the rectory of the Anglican church, which was planted soon after 1884, when the present gray stone church and gray stone rectory were built. It was a beautiful hedge, but it had become more or less of a menace, both to the hats and umbrellas of the ladies attending church.

It was planted before the cement sidewalk was put there, when space wasn't at a premium, but of late years it had encroached farther and farther, making walking along Church St. south rather difficult. The wide open space now in front of the rectory improves that corner, making a nice finish to the memorial park and the Lions park opposite. The church wardens and men of the congregation have been busy improving the grounds around the church this spring.

JUNIORS PLAN FIELD DAY, RICHMOND HILL

York County Junior Farmers are just completing plans for their annual livestock judging competition and girls' achievement day on Friday, June 4. Headquarters for the day will again be Richmond Hill, with the girls arranging their display in the Sunday-school room of the United church while the boys will register at the municipal hall at 8.30 D.S.T.

According to W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, plans will be completed before next week so that registration may be made at the first farm to be visited without having to drive to Richmond Hill. This will cut down on the amount of driving necessary for the contestants.

The usual prizes for the day will be presented but as yet no definite arrangements have been made regarding a suitable program for the evening. It is hoped, however, to have a banquet at Richmond Hill. In order to encourage a good turnout of junior judges, oral reasons will be given on only five classes of stock instead of ten as was done in former years.

As usual the mammoth picnic put on by the Junior Farmers will follow a week later, when the various clubs will bring their favorite softballers, sprinters, etc., to Musselman's Lake on June 11. Supper will follow at 5.30 and conclude with a dance in the evening. Max Boag's orchestra will be in attendance and all Junior Farmers are most heartily invited to attend both events.

Tells How To Combine Victory and Vitamins

(By Rudy Renzius for Newmarket Horticultural Society)

The motto of the Victory gardener is: plant, tend well, harvest, then can. By having a Victory garden this year, You can have fresh vegetables until frost time in October and you can fortify your family for the coming winter by canning every surplus pint of food.

Why vegetables? Because of the minerals and vitamins they contain and, luckily for us, some of the commonest and easiest to raise are the most valuable. Many housewives have learned that minerals and vitamins are necessary for good growth and health.

Rejections of soldier material have emphasized the need of improving our eating habits. The following vegetables are high in vitamins: beans (snap), carrots, kale, spinach. In thiamine, lima beans, cabbage, sweet potatoes. In calcium, chard, kale, turnips. In iron, lima beans, beet greens, chard, kale, spinach, turnip greens. In energy value, lima beans, sweet potatoes, sweet corn, potatoes, parsnips, kale and so on down the line.

For your taste and for your health choose a combination of (1) green and leafy vegetables, (2) yellow vegetables, and (3) tomatoes. For things that are easy to grow and if you are obliged to stick to a limited number choose a group from: (a) members of the bean family, (b) the cabbage tribe, and (c) tomatoes.

TAKES COURSE

Capt. Margaret Nimmo, officer in charge of the Salvation Army, attended a special "refresher" course at the Salvation Army Training College, Toronto, from Monday to Thursday, this week.

CLOTHING IS WANTED FOR RUSSIAN RELIEF

The Canadian Aid to Russia fund is appealing for further donations of clothing to help out the serious situation in Russia.

A letter from relief headquarters says in part: "While agreeing that we have done splendidly by shipping 21 carloads of clothing, we wish to point out that it seems infinitesimal when placed alongside of Russia's needs, and the enormous sacrifices she has had to make in the battle for human freedom. We stress the fact that, since June 22 will mark the second anniversary of Russia's magnificent resistance, we should continue the campaign until then and make the week in which the anniversary occurs a "Thanks to Russia week' marked by an intensive appeal for clothing."

This appeal falls in nicely with spring house-cleaning now in progress, and gives an opportunity of doing a good deed and putting discarded clothing into service where it is so needed.

Leave clothing at Trinity church, Tuesday or Friday afternoons, or if your bundles are too large, or you have no means of transportation phone Mrs. G. E. Case, Newmarket 296, for a pick-up.

BRIDE HAS YORK CO. ANTECEDENTS

Goodwin, became the bride of Pilot Officer Arthur Laurence Sexsmith, youngest son of Mrs. John Sexsmith, Sintaluta, and the late Mr. Sexsmith.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, potted plants, carnations and tulips. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. MacCrimmon. Miss Mary Larden presided at the organ. Mr. Wm. Goodwin, brother of the bride, sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white sheer, with finger-tip veil, held in place with a coronet of small pink flowers. She carried pink carnations.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Goodwin, wearing a floor-length gown of Alaska blue sheer. She carried yellow carnations and snapdragons with matching flowers in her hair. The groom was attended by his brother, Victor Sexsmith, R.C.A.F.

A reception for 60 guests was held at the bride's home. The bride's mother received in a dusty rose dress, with corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Sexsmith assisted, wearing navy blue sheer and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The table was centred with a tiered cake, banked in pink tulle, amid lighted candles, carnations and tulips. Mrs. Claud Leslie, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Hedely Cox, sister of the groom, both of Regina, poured tea.

For travelling the bride wore a dressmaker's suit of Chili pink French wool crepe, with beige coat and hat and brown accessories.

SORRY HE SPOKE

An artist had just read a story through and was about to begin illustrating it for a magazine.

"I say," he said to his wife, "this story is supposed to have happened in 1934. Now, what were dresses like four years ago?"

His wife threw him a bitter glance. "Like mine!" she retorted.

Misplaced

The little man was perfectly harmless, but the lady sitting next to him in the bus was a spinster, and suspicious of all males. So since they were somewhat crowded on the seat, she pushed the umbrella between her knee and his, holding it firmly as a barrier.

A shower came up, and when the woman left the car she put up the umbrella. As she did so, she perceived that the little man followed her. She had guessed that he was a masher; now she knew it.

She walked quickly down the side street, and the man pursued her through the driving rain. She ran up the steps to her home, and feeling herself safe at last, she faced about and addressed her pursuer angrily: "How dare you follow me—what do you want, anyhow?"

The drenched little man at the foot of the steps spoke pleadingly:

"Please, ma'am, I want my umbrella."
